PUBLICATIONS

Monographs:

Mental Pilgrimage in the European Middle Ages: Rethinking Medieval Virtual Pilgrims and Modern Perspectives. This cross-disciplinary analysis of imagined, or “virtual”, pilgrimage, i.e. contemplative travel to holy sites within the imagination, surveys and critiques the existing Anglophone literature on the subject, provides previously unknown examples and new interpretations of the phenomenon from the southern German lands, sets a new course for the field vis-à-vis adjacent (and sometimes overlapping) areas of study, and reflects on the social embeddedness of research — all with a focus on gender and a format for pedagogy. (Under contract with ARC Humanities Press, expected 2028.)

Pilgrim and Preacher: the Audiences and Observant Spirituality of Friar Felix Fabri (1437/8–1502). Oxford Historical Monographs. Oxford, UK: Oxford University Press, 2014.

DIGITAL HUMANITIES PROJECTS

Peer-Reviewed Digital Humanities Project:

The Gebetsbuch Project: a collaborative research project, including a published digitization, digital transcript, and textual pattern analysis of the texts found in the fifteenth-century prayer book (Gebetsbuch) Innsbruck, Tiroler Landesmuseum Ferdinandeum, Cod. FB 3172. The project is a student-and-researcher collaboration involving the Universität Innsbruck, the University of North Texas, the Tiroler Landesmuseen Ferdinandeum, and the Universitäts- und Landesbibliothek Tirol. Published February 2025.

- Project website: <https://www.uibk.ac.at/en/projects/gebetsbuch/>.
- Project publication of the digitized manuscript, Cod. FB 3172, on Manuscripta.at, the digital library of the Österreichische Akademie der Wissenschaften, Institut für Mittelalterforschung: <https://manuscripta.at/diglit/AT3900-FB3172/0012>.

Digital Humanities Projects In Progress:

Mapping Observance: a project employing Geographic Information Systems (GIS) technologies to visualize the late-medieval social networks amongst religious institutions in what is now southwestern Germany (May 2019–present).

The Digital Observance Network: Visualizing Observant Reform: a project that aims to establish an international, interdisciplinary Digital Arts and Humanities (DAH) research network of Observant reform scholars. The long-term goal of this Digital Observance network is to create an integrative digital portal entitled VORsight: Visualizing Observant Reform in the Middle Ages and Beyond, which will bring innovative, publicly available medieval DAH resources into concert with the latest research on medieval and Early Modern Observant reform. Co-founded with James D. Mixson, Associate Professor of History, University of Alabama (January 2016–present).

Virtual Pilgrimage: a cross-disciplinary, monograph-length analysis of “virtual pilgrimage,” or contemplative travel to holy sites within the imagination, drawing upon the insights offered by the two Digital Humanities projects described above (2017–present).

Completed Digital Humanities Project:

Spatial History Research Collaborative: a project at the University of Texas at Arlington (UTA) that seeks to promote the study and use of GIS technologies within the discipline of History, as well as to build research infrastructure in UTA’s College of Liberal Arts that can be scaled to incorporate other disciplines and additional faculty members (January 2016–August 2016).
